

Your session only lasted less than 10 seconds. If you have not logged out yourself, this could mean that there is some installation problem or that you may be out of disk space. Try logging in with one of the failsafe sessions to see if you can fix this problem.

☒ View details (~/.xsession-errors file)

```
initctl: Unable to connect to Upstart: Failed to connect to syndaemon: no process found /etc/mdm/Xsession: Beginning session setup...
localuser:makulu being added to access control list
```

 OK