The Lost Ways helps people learn advanced, primitive and basic survival skills. The program teaches key skills for the inevitable moment when people lose themselves without the digital crutch. It contains a number of techniques that a person may use in dangerous situations like natural disasters to save themselves and their loved ones.

Claude Davis has recently created a program named “The Lost Ways” which teaches people basic, advanced and primitive survival skills, especially in handling emergency situations. The book helps prepare people to survive different kinds of situations, be it armed conflict, starvation, wars, dearth, natural calamities or a force majeure.

This program teaches people to have the potential to overcome and defeat difficult challenges, beat incredible odds and come out a survivor when they are confronted with a startling and accidental survival situation. This book teaches people the art of surviving beyond any unforeseen event, to remain alive and to live.

Claude Davis addresses all aspects of survival in this book, from wilderness to spiritual. The author makes people learn wilderness survival skills and ensure they can take care of themselves and their loved ones on their next boondocks excursion or at the time of need. The program comes with three golden lessons that kids should be learning so they know what to do if they are stuck out in the middle of the barrens waiting, the author claims. Moreover, this system teaches people couple of key skills for the imminent moment when they find or lose themselves without the digital crutch.

According to Claude Davis, it is not just physical survival he is teaching people in this book but also mental, emotional and spiritual survival. The Lost Ways is one step by step program which teaches people to take their time to read all the information delivered inside this guidebook and practice the skills as soon as they can. The program renders proper knowledge and equipment to make people's trip safe and pleasant.

The main goal of The Lost Ways is to make even the youngest member of the family to feel empowered in situations that are accidental and staggering. According to the creator, with proper awareness and rational approach to offset terror or alarm, most of the kids may be survivors and have stories to tell rather than having narration to tell about them by recovery teams.

The Lost Ways teaches life skills to youth. The course makes them learn about skills such a fire-making, shelter construction, snaring, water procurement and survival psychology. It helps them learn basic wilderness first aid which would make a great difference in any accidental or emergency situation. The book teaches people to signal for help which would make all the difference in their chance for survival. It also teaches people how to find direction in the hinterland and helps them learn the skills of finding direction by the signs of nature which will increase their confidence in the barrens.

Moreover, in this program Lex Rooker will show people how to make superfood with basic ingredients that they can easily find in any superstore near them. Additionally, from Shannon Azares, users will learn how sailors from the XVII century preserved water in their ships for months and even years and how they can use this method to preserve clean water for their family free of cost.
