

FRANKENSKIES FULL LENGTH DOCUMENTARY

I regard this new documentary "Frankenskies" as important in view of the current hurricane season and ongoing catastrophic flooding in the Houston area.

As an amateur radio operator, I participated with a volunteer team of communicators at the National Hurricane Center for several years in Miami during 1990's. We were assigned to contact HAM operators in affected area of a hurricane to report property damage, barometric pressure and local wind conditions/speed. The NHC used the data to evaluate the effectiveness of their forecasts.

I had several conversations with NHC meteorologists who divulged what might be considered "classified" information at the time. These conversations revealed that undisclosed experiments with hurricane manipulation were taking place as "experiments".
