

Injection Molding

Injection Molding refers to the method that a mold is gotten by cooling and solidifying the heated and melted material injected into the cavity via high pressure. The method is suitable for the mass production of parts with complex shape and is one of the important processing methods. Click here: <https://www.chinaoemplastics.com/injection-molding/> for more info.