

Cumberland Academy: A School with a Rich History and a Bright Future

The Cumberland Academy is a school that has a long and illustrious history, as well as an exciting and promising future. Since 1785, the institution has been educating young people, and to this day, it maintains its reputation for providing an excellent education. Classes are provided for children in kindergarten through twelfth grade, and the faculty directory at Cumberland Academy is comprised of highly qualified educators who are enthusiastic about their work.

“Educating the students in an atmosphere that stimulates intellectual curiosity, spiritual growth, social responsibility, physical well-being, and aesthetic appreciation” is both the goal and vision of Cumberland Academy. We think that Cumberland Academy serves children of all ages providing them with the best education that is presently available! Students will have the opportunity to acquire a well-rounded education and to prepare for their future at Cumberland Academy, which is the ideal setting for both of these goals.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) has granted Cumberland Academy with its accreditation, and the school is also a part of the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS). Our students have access to a wide range of services, such as those pertaining to financial aid and tuition support.

The Goals and Objectives

At Cumberland Academy, we hold the belief that education ought to be about more than just learning information off by heart or performing well on tests. We hope that by the time our students graduate, they will have developed into well-rounded individuals who are interested in the world around them and confident in their ability to meet any obstacles they encounter in their lives.

“The purpose of Cumberland Academy is to collaborate with its instructors, staff, students, and parents in order to provide an educational setting that is secure, welcoming, and supportive. Recognizing and appreciating the individuality of each child while simultaneously motivating and pushing them to realize their best potential. In addition, the academic and social curriculum of the institution supports the development of important life skills that are vital in becoming an independent person.”

The pupils will get an education in an environment that fosters intellectual curiosity, spiritual development, social responsibility, physical well-being, and an appreciation for beauty. We feel that if we give our children an education that covers a wide range of subjects, we are better equipping them to become productive members of society and influential figures in the communities they live in.

“We have a dream of Cumberland Academy becoming an institution that is famous not only for its academic prowess but also for the creative and helpful ways in which it educates its students. We are dedicated to providing our children with the very finest education that is now available and to preparing them for success in whichever direction in life they decide to go.”

Cumberland Academy is not merely an educational institution; rather, it is a community.
