Therefore choosing the right tiles for your floor, kitchen counter top or even for your wall can be baffling. Moreover, they are accessible in many varieties of colors and designs. Here is some brief information on options of tiles that a tiles showroom in Bhubaneswar will offer you.

Ceramic tiles

Ceramic tiles are the most popular among people. They are mainly made from clay. These ceramic tiles have been divided into different categories such as decorative thin wall tile, glazed quarry tile, glazed paver tile, glazed wall tile, glazed ceramic mosaic, glazed quarry tile, unglazed quarry paver tile, unglazed ceramic mosaic, and special purpose tile. A glazed tile means the tile has a special coating on them.

Porcelain Tiles

Porcelain tiles are prepared with the use of very high pressure and heat. They are made from neatly grounded sand. Due to the high pressure, the sand starts to structure like ceramic tiles. They are available in glazed and unglazed finishes in addition to a polished and matte finish.

Natural Stone Tile

Natural stone tiles are typically made up of marble, granite, or slate. These are polished to look glossy. These tiles are not suggested for areas where water or oil might build up because the colors may fade in due course with continuous exposure. Natural Stones are strong, therefore can last a lifetime, making them the most preferred tiles used for modern homes. Some other types of tiles are agglomerate and terrazzo. Terrazzo tiles are built from granite or marble and then merged with Portland cement or epoxy matrix. Agglomerate is also made from granite but in place of being blended with epoxy or Portland cement, they are mixed with polyester resin.
