Introduction of the Virtual Mobile Infrastructure Market

Virtual Mobile Infrastructure (VMI) is a mobile-centric technology that runs mobile apps on a mobile operating system (OS) located on a remote server. This essentially creates a virtual device running in the data center that a thin client app can access on mobile endpoints.

Key Players of the Global Virtual Mobile Infrastructure Market:

- Pulse Secure, LLC
- Sierraware
- Intelligent Waves LLC
- Raytheon
- Genymobile
- Avast Software
- Nubo Inc.
- Prescient Solutions
- Fortinet Inc.

Virtual Mobile Infrastructure Market Dynamics (including market size, share, trends, forecast, growth, forecast, and industry analysis)

The virtual mobile infrastructure market is experiencing robust growth mainly because of the accelerating penetration of smartphones and the increasing apprehension against security and protection of data. In addition, several properties like preventing data loss, simplification of IT operations, improved satisfaction of employees, and fewer efforts for in-house app development will further strengthen the virtual mobile infrastructure market size. Furthermore, other drivers such as better data protection that protects employees' privacy, decreased cost of hardware and operations, and management of mobile workplace through a single console is stimulating the virtual mobile infrastructure industry's growth. However, inadequate knowledge and lack of ability to access data without the internet will hamper the virtual mobile infrastructure market share.
