1. Graphic Designers and Illustrators : Be it designing wedding invitations, posters, or other elements of a backdrop in any event of the wedding, a graphic designer is always in demand. An individual that has the necessary skills, a creative mindset and a keen interest in working for an event management company can do wonders over here.

2. Research : A wedding company requires a lot of extensive research to be done. This could be about various locations that could work well for a certain client as per their taste, figuring out styles and themes that could look the most aesthetic, keeping an eye on up and coming trends and so on. Research is an integral part of each and every company and their functioning. It helps them stay relevant in the market. Individuals that love browsing the internet, doing ground research by visiting places, conducting virtual surveys etc can apply for jobs in this domain.

3. Digital marketing and social media expert : Weddings today aren't just a private affair. A lot of couples want their wedding to be a big, grand event. And why not! It is a special day in their lives. Thus their job is to promote the wedding by coming up with hashtags, making posts and reels using photographs, and videos on the social media and make the event a visual treat for others to see and cherish.
