

Ranthambore Fort

Ranthambore Fort, situated in the Sawai Madhopur district, is a formidable structure with a history dating back to the 8th century. Initially built by the Chauhan Rajputs, the fort was later passed on to the Yadavs and subsequently to the Sisodia Rajputs of Mewar. The fort's strategic location atop a hill near the confluence of the Aravalli and Vindhya ranges made it a vital military stronghold. The architecture of Ranthambore Fort is characterized by its massive stone walls, bastions, and towering gates. For more, visit the link below:
