A 9/11 Widow Uncorks on Khashoggigate

By Kristen Breitweiser, one of the four 9/11 widows - known as the "Jersey Girls" - instrumental in forcing the government to form the 9/11 Commission to investigate the 2001 attacks.

"One last fact to mention: the timing of Khashoggi's disappearance when taken in connection with the 9/11 Families' litigation. Last Friday, something very notable happened in the 9/11 litigation against the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. For the first time ever, the Department of Justice stood on the side of the 9/11 Families and publicly committed to finally releasing three large tranches of formerly secret documents that we believe connect the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to the 9/11 attacks. This is the biggest development we have had in our over 16 years of litigation."
