

My Dream Hiking Destination In Iceland

It's been years since I have not met my childhood friend Tom. First, he was also living in New York but eight years ago he was shifted to New Zealand. Now I am going to meet him in New Zealand so I called him and asked if he is available in that country. He is a business man and he used to travel to different countries for business purposes.

Tom told me that he is available but only for a few days as he has to travel to Scotland for a business meeting. I said that I am coming to meet him and already booked flight tickets from United Airlines Reservations. He was very happy and excited to meet me and have a get together.

I packed my stuff and boarded the flight on perfect timing. It was a great experience flying with this airline and I reached the destination on time. When Tom saw me at the airport he was very happy and said that my face has changed and is also so different. I said, it's been years we have not met. Now we will have fun and discuss our childhood memories.
