Infographic

The infographic is titled "What a DC Charter Bus Rental Company Should Focus on Isn't What Most People Even Think About". It features several sections with images and text:

- Budget: A section with a pie chart and the word "Budget" in a cloud. Text: "While you've considered about how budget the right company is focused on safety. When most people tend to look for a charter bus rental company, they focus on cost. They may have a specific budget with which they want to work, but safety is most always in practice is one the best way to go about looking a charter bus."
- OnTime Service: A section with a bus and the text "OnTime Service". Text: "Some people also consider punctuality to be an important factor. This may have been a priority and it is in Washington DC Charter Bus, but to what end? Have it only matter if the charter bus company is located near their way or on the other side of the city? If the company has a great deal of experience and is available, you have access to a great deal of experience and a reliable service, what difference would it make?"
- Affordable Prices: A section with a bus and a circular stamp that says "Affordable Prices". Text: "However, in many situations, the cheapest provider isn't the one that's best. They often have other vehicles in their fleet and are a great deal of experience. They may not have the best safety or on-time service record, either. If safety is not at the company, it may not get your hands on a bus, but safety is a lot of capital involved. It's going to take to be on the other side. When they only have one or two vehicles in their fleet, they are limited in their options and may tend to try making around them more than to their own because they're not used to their service."
- Contact Us: A section with a circular graphic of social media icons and contact information: "Call: (571) 210-4945", "Email: contact@charterbusrentaldc.com", "Website: http://www.charterbusrentaldc.com".

At the bottom, it says "presented by PIKTOCHART".
