

Abundance of disciplines and courses for students

Which major should study in Taiwan? This is the question that most students pose when studying in this country. Previously when imagining studying in Taiwan, students chose only outstanding professions such as technology and business administration. Now, with Taiwan's open-minded strategy for international students and a rich network of universities, specialized majors, students can freely select the appropriate fields of specialization.

Some majors have strong points and high employment opportunities after studying abroad in this country such as information technology, Education, Communication, Economics, Hotel and Tourism Management, Marketing, Language, Apparel ...

reasonable price for studying abroad in Taiwan

In addition to the scholarship programs, Taiwan Self-study abroad now also attracts a large number of Vietnamese students to pay attention. The range of studying in Taiwan includes both tuition and living expenses, which are more affordable than most of other Asian countries such as Singapore, Japan, and South Korea.

Accordingly, the gentle tuition fee for a university course in Taiwan leans around 3,500 USD / year, the dormitory cost is about 900 USD / year (equivalent to a one-year tuition of about 75 million VND, a 1-year dorm about 20 million VND). This is considered the best tuition rates in Asia.

The policy makes it more handy

The issue of studying while studying abroad in Taiwan is also very noticeable. The questions were raised such as: Studying, studying and working in Taiwan, can you work part time? What is the overtime policy in Taiwan? In fact, after enrollment and with a residence permit (ARC), students apply for a Work Permit (Work Permit) and are supported by the University's International Collaborative Office (GAO). After taking the Work Permit, students are allowed to work up to 20 hours per week. The minimum basic wage under the labor law is NTD 133 / hour.

Depending on the majors, the school will support the placement of probationary (paid) for students, helping students accumulate high school experience right from the seat in the school. During the 3-month summer, students can choose to return to their home country for the summer vacation or stay in the Taiwan study abroad program, which makes the recommendation of the school. The average salary received from 600 USD -1000 USD / month.
