Have you just created a web site and now you need to get it indexed so that the search engines recognize it?

I have to tell you...

When I first looked into SEO (search engine optimization), I thought getting my site indexed would take weeks or even months! As a matter of fact, I thought I had to go make a request with every search engine in order to get on a list so that eventually they will recognize my site! When you are just getting started with your own online opportunity, it is really difficult to think about waiting weeks or months for something like Google to recognize it!

I can tell you now that it is all a bunch of hooey.

Yes...There is a place where you can go to for each search engine where you would enter in specific information to get your site eventually indexed.

Here is the deal though.

You do not have to do this. If you want your site noticed by the search machines as soon as possible...just do the following.

Go to any article submission site like the site I am submitting this article to.

Write an article and submit it making sure your links in the resource box point back to your web site.

That is it!!

Why does that work?

A good article submission site usually has what is called "high PageRank". PageRank is specific to the Google search engine. Google does at least 65% of all search engine marketing on the internet.

A high PageRank means Google is sending queries to that site all of the time.

If your article is new content, as soon as they query the site, they will take your article and index it.

Because Google is overwhelmingly the internet favorite, all other search engines will find your site as well!!

It does not get any easier than that!
