What kind of people are suitable candidates for liposuction?

You are not necessarily a suitable candidate for liposuction just because you have a lot of extra fat. In reality, the polar opposite is true. People who are in good condition and have a stable or normal weight are the greatest candidates for the operation. You must also have a good attitude and fair expectations for the treatment. This is due to the fact that their skin is sufficiently tight and elastic; if it is not, the skin will become baggy after the treatment. As a result, older people may not get the same benefits as younger patients. As a result, it is preferable to have liposuction when your skin is still firm.

Obese persons should first try to lose weight through diet and exercise before considering liposuction. Liposuction in restricted regions may be beneficial to those who have had difficulty shedding weight.

Commonly treated areas include:

- Face
- Chin and neck
- Upper arms
- Abdomen
- Hips
- Thighs
- Buttocks
