1. How are dental crowns helpful in restoring a tooth?

Dental crowns offer incredible practicality by improving the function of teeth and also offering cosmetic transformations.

What is Dental Crown?

The dental crowns are artificial fixtures that sit over the existing tooth and serve as an alternate for missing teeth. The primary goal of crown is to restore functionality of teeth, improve strength and improve overall appearance.

Why do you need Dental Crown?

Your dentist will recommend a dental crown if you have:

- To protect a weak tooth by restoring the function and look of your teeth which have been badly damaged or lost
- To restore broken, worn out or fractured tooth
- To cover dis-colored teeth by cosmetic modification that cannot be fixed by the simple tooth whitening process.
- To prevent teeth from shifting positions
- To support the teeth with larger filling in case natural structure is worn out

The crowns are made from porcelain or acrylic. The dentists use the latest technologies to ensure that your crowns match your natural teeth and that will surely give your smile a great makeover.

2. What is the Procedure of Dental Crown placement?

When you visit the clinic in India, the doctor will begin with a detailed examination of your oral cavity. This will include physical examination as well as X-ray and other scans such as CT as required. Based on the preliminary examination your doctor will recommend if you are a suitable candidate.

During procedure

On the scheduled day, your doctor will give local anesthetic at the targeted site. He/she will ensure you are comfortable throughout the procedure. If required you are given light sedation for relaxation.

Next, the doctor will make a small incision on the gum and a drill will be used to remove the outer surface of the tooth. This is done to create space for placing a crown. Then the dentist will place a temporary crown for protection over your tooth. In the next appointment, the permanent dental bridge or crown is placed.

The crown is prepared as per your oral cavity and it fits correctly to your tooth and bite pattern. In India, a qualified dentist with vast experience will give you the best dental service you deserve.
