

Top 3 Reasons to Call a Lawyer After a DUI Arrest

After an arrest, it's tempting to try to handle the case alone simply because it seems like a conviction is imminent and there's no way to avoid it. However, this couldn't be further from the truth. Anyone who has been arrested and charged with driving under the influence will want to contact a DUI Lawyer quickly so they can get help handling their case and attempt to get a better outcome.

The Possibility of Charges Being Dismissed

It is possible for drunk driving charges to be dismissed, even if it feels like there's just too much evidence for a conviction to be avoided. criminal law are familiar with the police procedures, the equipment used for testing blood alcohol levels, and the way a DUI case is handled in the courts. They'll look for any way to show the charges should be dismissed altogether so their client is no longer facing fines and a lengthy jail sentence.

The Possibility of Charges or Penalties Being Reduced

Just because a DUI is what the person is charged with doesn't mean that's what the conviction has to be. The lawyer may be able to convince the prosecution to offer a plea deal. The arrested person does admit guilt, but it's to a lesser charge with minimal penalties instead of a DUI. While criminal law won't avoid a conviction on their criminal record, they won't have a DUI and the complications that can arise as a result.

Help Being Able to Drive After a DUI

While Riverside Criminal Lawyers will focus on helping their client get through the criminal case with minimal penalties, they will also help the arrested person regain their ability to drive. criminal defense lawyer can help their client request and obtain a hardship license. This allows them to continue driving during the criminal trial as well as after the trial if they're convicted by obtaining a hardship license. This does limit when and how far they can drive but does allow them to continue driving to work when they are not able to make alternative arrangements.

If you've been arrested and charged with a DUI, don't just wait for the hearings to end and for you to find out what your penalties are going to be. Instead, take action and contact a lawyer to start getting help for your case. Visit the website for Wallin & Klarich now to learn more about why you need a lawyer to fight DUI charges or to find a lawyer who is ready to help you now.