

Feng Shui Stones - What Do They Mean?

Feng shui stones are generally used as charm bracelets, necklaces, and sometimes employed in jewelry.

The regular ones are rose quartz, jade, amethyst, peridot, or anything else. Feng shui stones have a lot of meanings and so are popular for healing purposes.

Here's a quick listing of probably the most common stones being used as well as their meaning and purpose.

Amber - It is known to guard medical and eases body pains. The stone is considered to ease headaches, infections, body pains, toothaches, and many others.

Amethyst - Also referred to as the "peace stone", amethyst is a superb stress buster and fights off migraine and skin diseases. It is also used to boost one's immune system.

Peridot - This stone paves the way for opportunities and is recognized to reduce stress and relaxes mental performance.

Rose Quartz - Also referred to as the "Love Stone", the rose quartz eases up sexual and emotional problems between partners. It clears negativity for example anger, resentment, and jealousy. For personals, the rose quartz can also help you see love and long-term relationships.

Jade - This stone inspires the mind to create quick but good decisions. This is a all the best stone that brings wealth and also a healthy body.

Green Emerald - This stone is known as the "Crystal of Abundance". It's good for people who are forgetful as it aids the memory. It enhances prosperity, patience, and love.

Serpentine - This stone is frequently worn by Roman travelers in the past then for protection of the unseen danger. This stone is often seen on bedrocks.

Blue Sapphire - Also referred to as the "Stone of Holy Blessings" brings in prophetic wisdom and protection on the one utilizing it. It is known to instill hope, faith, and joy towards the bearer.

Hematite - It is known as a strong blood purifier and supports circulating oxygen within the body. It's good if you have blood disorders, diabetes, leg cramps, and many others. Additionally, it attracts abundance and opens new opportunities.

These are merely many of the feng shui stones widely used by many people and come on most Chinese shops and jewelry stores. Take into consideration your daily life plus your personal dreams, and then make a variety that's best for you!

For details about da phong thuy please visit site: click site.