- Group antiques by colour palette

The basic aspect of astonishing interiors is following a colour palette. If your home decorative items are chosen keeping in mind the colour palette, it brings a sense of uniformity to your home decor.

When it comes to colour blending, going for neutral hues can never go wrong. You can always try & bring life to the neutrals by popping a classy metal wall decor on your walls. If you wish to get your hands at the perfect metal wall decor, our website welcomes you with open hands! Colour popping or resting neutrals, antiques will definitely bring a breeze of grace to the room.

- Layer antiques meet new home decorative items

Try to mix and match. What's a more eclectic and intriguing way to incorporate antiques in your home decorative items? Layer multiple styles and mix contemporary and modern home decorative items.

An interior design with a chandelier and classic table lamp can be contrasted and layered with a vibrant hand wall painting. The hand wall painting shouldn't be too loud and modern in look. It would not just ruin the vibe of your home decor, but also look like a disaster. So, while selecting a hand wall painting, consider the colours and designs of it so that it flows well with your space.

- Let your antique be the show-stopper

Keep all eyes on the antiques now! A bold antique home decorative item always makes a statement. It becomes the focal point in the room. Don't know how to do it? Well, a perfect home decorative item to make a statement would be a chandelier or metal wall decor that stands out in the room. You can also add a vibrant hand wall painting to add life to the walls of your room. To grab some of the most remarkable hand wall paintings, visit our website now! Remember to not go overboard with the interior design. Minimalistic home decorative items make the room aesthetics look more eye-catching.

- Keep them accessible

Always remember that antiques also have a functional value along with aspirational value. You must not just keep them out of reach, as a home decorative item, but also as a useful resource. Keep them accessible. Make a place for antiques on your coffee tables, shelves, slabs and walls.

Some home decorative items like hand wall paintings and metal wall decor would just add aesthetic vibes to the room. Yet, understand that it's important to add such decorative items too - Masterpieces that turn your room into no less than a dream.

- Mixing antiques of different styles and eras

When it comes to antique home decorative items, don't limit yourself to just one style. Experiment, experiment, experiment! You can mix and match an antique wall clock decor with a contemporary hand wall painting. It will add layers to your room aesthetics. Adding on, putting up different sized mirrors, metal wall art and contemporary hand wall paintings would maintain the eclectic vibe of the space. This sort of arrangement of the home decorative items would make your room look as charming as ever. It would convince your guests that smart efforts are put in to make it a dream home! - Keep it minimal

One of the most stupid mistakes people make while decorating their home is overdoing it. You must understand that your home is not a canvas filled with colours and designs & elements.

Keep it minimal and classy. A plain wall with classic metal wall art would look stunning as ever. Since antiques are already heavy home decorative items, it's best to stick to the basics like mirrors, metal wall art, hand wall paintings, etc. (You can also find magnificent wall mirrors on our website!) Keep in mind that the less cluttered your interiors are, the more sophisticated they look.

- More lights!

It is a tip not just for antique home decor but also a door to breathtaking interiors. Light plays a significant role. You can juggle around with colours and patterns in the lighting of a space. More brightness will highlight the detailings in the antique home decorative items even more. For example, a metal wall art (gold, silver or bronze) would shine bright in the right light, catching everyone's gaze. For putting up a hand wall painting, pretty lights would elevate the essence of the room instantly. Each colour in the hand wall painting would stand out, grabbing everyone's attention.

Want to make a home that makes a mark? You can certainly not do it without antique home decorative items. From hand wall paintings and mirrors to metal wall decor & accent tables, each home decorative item in your modern household gives it a unique essence.
