

Online Music School

Online Music School It is a bit like the digital revolution in music education. There has been an explosion of online music education in recent years with many people trying out music classes and using music lessons in their lives online. I am a huge proponent of the ideas and theories behind the "prosumer" concept. I love sharing ideas with people and I am often surprised how many people in the world have very little knowledge of musical theory, know very little about musical instruments, or are just not interested in learning.

Rather than hating on people that do not take music lessons, I love sharing ideas and ideas. I love sharing music theory ideas. With the online music school, I hope to be able to make learning music theory and music appreciation as easy as possible. It is hard to imagine a class taught offline being as easy to learn and understand. But with online music classes, I can imagine being able to easily teach a class online that anyone could learn and enjoy. You can teach online without a whole classroom or a bunch of people to teach online.
