Extramarks is a new-age digital learning solutions provider, which caters to early childhood learning, school learning, and competitive exam preparation. Their solutions are available on the web, through apps, and through tablet devices. Extramarks is on a mission to make learning fun. They want to make your concepts crystal clear, such that the need for rote-learning can be completely eliminated. They want to give you a holistic learning experience, such that you don't have to go to expensive tuitions that burn a hole in your pocket and also make you travel a great distance. For the longest time, Extramarks was the biggest name in the education technology domain, primarily enabling smart classes across schools. Their learning content was available in 8000 schools, through which they reached out to more than 6 million learners. A little more than a year ago, however, Extramarks also launched applications through which students could study right from the comfort of their smartphones. Their most popular application is the Learning Application, which has clocked more than 6 million downloads of its own. This app is an end-to-end learning solution, which caters to all subjects for all classes – in one place. So whether it is Sanskrit, Mathematics or Accounts – one doesn't need to go to separate tutors.
