But, there are some of the key factors one should consider while preparing for the IAS Exam without coaching. Let's see what are they!

Stage I: How to start UPSC IAS Preparation

Please do read and finish your NCERTs in the least of times. They are essential but not sufficient. They help you assess where you stand, what you lack and what needs to be done. After NCERTs, focus on standard textbook like GC Leong, Laxmikant, Spectrum, Shankar and Nitin Singhania notes. Here is also a difficult part. Do not be lured by your other friends who are reading different difficult books. The exam is cracked not by reading too many books but by reading same book, many times.

Stage II: How to Prepare For UPSC Civil Services Examination Without Coaching?

Then you must develop a habit of reading newspaper daily. Either the Hindu or Indian Express. This is very important. Current affairs are 60–70% of the question paper at all the three stages- Prelims, Mains, Interview.

By now you are also expected to have finalized on your optional. Be very careful here. Optional can make or break it for you. Please don't be egoistic here- "MAin toh college topper tha maths mein, toh maths hi lunga" (I will take Maths optional. Afterall I was the college topper). Despite my love for English, I did not have the courage to take English Literature optional because its performance ain't good.

Over the time, also practice answer writing. And do solve previous years question papers.
