But what are female fetishes and kinks in BDSM? A female fetish in New York is a kink or sexual attraction to inanimate (non-living) objects and body parts. So, if you are a newbie and want to spice up your life, try the following BDSM play. Keep scrolling!

Try These Female Fetish Play If You Are a BDSM Lover

Improve your sex life and add a new dimension using the following BDSM act.

Humiliation

“Intense language as a use of force can be just as intense, or even more intense, as consensually degrading physical sensations, such as impact play,” Horn says.

Humiliation is another type of female fetish and the best way to push your sexual boundaries. You can also try this BDSM act with your partner to bring closeness between you and your partner.

So, not all BDSM plays are physical. Name-calling and verbal abuse are some of the common examples of humiliation.

Many females also like to be called names such as “slut,” “bitch,” or “whore.” You can seek help from a professional dominatrix to keep the act consensual.

Role Play

Role-playing is another common female fetish in New York! In this BDSM play, you and your partner can act as a character outside of your day-to-day lives.

This BDSM act can be as simple as acting in the nurse outfit or teacher student and mommy baby. It can be as elaborate as creating a scene for whole character development. Here are some common examples of role play:

- Doctor and patient
- Boss and secretary
- Rich housewife and pool boy

Electrostimulation

Electrostimulation or electrical play is like getting an electric shock for sexy and kinky fun. This BDSM play involves using electrical power. Obviously, getting an electric shock can be dangerous, so a dominatrix always maintains proper safety measurements for electricity or electrical act.

Electrostimulation or electricity play is part of CBT (cock and ball torture). In this play, a dominatrix shocks her client's genitals by rigging them to electrical machines.
