

For more than two decades, its steady development of tea-making technology has gained a good reputation in the market.

However, the main reason for the success of the Bajiao Ting Pu-erh tea is its unique "Menghai tea", which h belongs to Bulang ancestry.

Bulang Mountain is located in the southern part of Menghai County, Xishuangbanna Prefecture, Yunnan Province, near the China-Myanmar border, and the altitude is above 1600 meters. It belongs to the south subtropical plateau monsoon climate zone.

There is no severe cold in winter and no severe summer in summer. There is only one dry and wet season in a year. Plenty of rainfall and fertile land are conducive to the growth of tea trees and the accumulation of nutrients.
