

Urgent care opens now Provide Unique Care.

A 24 hour emergency clinic provides quality care. The sudden and unexpected need for emergency care can be overwhelming to individuals and their families. When care is needed immediately for an injury or life-threatening illness, waiting to be seen by a doctor can be very stressful for patients. A walk in emergency clinic provides trauma care around the clock with shorter wait times than traditional urgent care open now. Most all emergency clinic's can provide the same high level of care through board-certified emergency physicians, treating a variety of problems such as broken bones and cardiac trauma.

The Service at a urgent care open now is Different.

Freestanding 24 hr emergency care centers work to provide a level of customer service where historically there has been none, by placing the ER in the heart of the community rather than the heart of the hospital. Patients with chronic illnesses require an acute care visit. Having additional information about the methods and medicine used in managing a chronically ill patient can further minimize time spent in the urgent care. It can also help the physicians and nurses better treat your emergency medicine needs. While the patient is the first line of information, it can be retrieved through and confirmed with your Primary Care Physician.

The urgent care open now: Part of the Community

The health and safety of local residents is the motivation behind placing walk in clinics in the community. Urgent care staff and providers work to coordinate care with your primary care physician. This ensures your treatment is a joint venture of the doctors, nurses and staff. Together they will provide you preventative care, manage any chronic illnesses, and takes care of your family. The type of courtesy communication that is provided by 24 hr emergency care centers is uncommon in traditional emergency rooms, where overcrowded waiting rooms often mean providers have less time to reach out to other caregivers. When an individual or a loved one requires care at a local emergency clinic, building confidence in the capability of the staff and the quality of the care begins in the waiting room. Urgent care facilities provide an effective alternative to traditional hospital emergency rooms, is centrally located within the community and works within the continuum of care to provide for and protect the health of those in need. The overall convenience and shortened wait times often make these freestanding emergency rooms an ideal choice for treating emergency needs.
