

Learn What to Expect at Iceland's Impressive Ice Caves

Iceland has become a popular vacation destination in recent years thanks to the country's friendly population, fascinating history and, more than anything, its beautiful and unique scenery. ice cave tour from reykjavik who are planning Adventure Tours in Iceland have no shortage of options, but they should make sure that the ice caves are on their short list of must-see attractions. Read on to find out how to prepare for a tour of the ice caves and what to expect on the adventure.

Who Can Attend?

The Iceland ice caves are accessible to adventurers of just about all levels. However, parents should note that children should be over 12 years of age if they intend on bringing them along, and all guests should be physically able to hike on mild inclines for at least 20 minutes at a time. day trips from vik iceland requires a 10- to 15-minute hike before visitors enter the ice caves.

What to Expect

All ice cave tours are conducted by seasoned local guides using certified safety equipment. Guests can expect to be guided through the caves in small groups, so there's never any worry about anyone getting lost or questions being ignored. The trip up to the caves will involve an off-road ride in the company's 4x4 super jeeps, so plan for a little bit of bouncing around as well.

On a full ice cave tour, guests will have the opportunity to stop at two to three caves. They will also make a stop at the black beach and, if they leave from Reykjavik, can also see the impressive Seljalandsfoss waterfall.

What to Bring

Needless to say, the ice caves will be cold so it's important to dress in winter-appropriate clothes, including hats, gloves, and layers. The hike up won't take long, but it will be hilly so wear either hiking boots or snow boots, and the weather can be unpredictable so don't forget to bring rain gear. Given that a visit to the ice caves is a once-in-a-lifetime experience for most guests, it's also important to remember to bring your camera.
