

Malang –Mad world of Mohit Suri's action thriller

A mad world in Mohit Suri's latest action thriller - Malang - a film which keeps you at the edge of the seat right from the start till the end. Exceptional work indeed! Which takes its cue from the director's last hit Ek Villain \(2014\) but doesn't come close to it in terms of plausible script and melodious numbers.

Malang has all the ingredients to make the movie enjoyable, which are ...

Ingredient 1 -

Malang with backdrop is Goa and that adds automatically a beauty that appease eyes but stereotyping Goa as a drug haven seems to have become Hindi cinema's latest habit - whether it is Dum Maro Dum \(2011\) or Go Goa Gone \(2013\).

Ingredient 2-

Disha Patrani is no more an eye candy, a carefree girl who wants to explore, experiment and live life to the fullest in the beginning with an attitude as a woman who goes after what she wants or a concerned woman who wants to keep the baby later! Though her dialogs were supportive for her narration, it was her facial expressions that made us route her story from her happy days to her not happy days.

Ingredient 3-

Anil Kapoor got a very interesting and layered character to play and with just his body language, we understand what his personality is. As a seasoned actor, this must come natural to him. Needless to say, Anil Kapoor's versatility is unmatched.

Ingredient 4-

Advait (Aditya Roy Kapur) has brought the character to life in his physique, and his stunt skills. It was with smoothness he slipped from that carefree soul to the man who demands eye for an eye. The Happy Aditya and the Angry Aditya was equally convincing.

Ingredient 5-

Kunal Kemmu, a Sunny of "hum hainrahepyarke" will steel your heart as "Michael" in Malang. His strenuous attitude, will make you wonder, what it would be like to be an amalgamation of Kunal (Michael)'s greatest weirdos.

Elli Evram would surprise you and other supporting cast wouldn't let you down as well!

Despite the film's minor short comings, Beauty of Goa captured by the cameramen, scintillating song sequences, fierce action scenes, great amount of twists and turns and lovely music, along with some wonderful acting make this flick, exciting, creative and well worth a few hours of your time. So a must watch this weekend!
