Ideal Season to Visit

Isn't it accurate to say that you're attempting to choose the ideal time of year to visit Satpura National Park? In order to avoid having your vacation ruined by the weather, these are the best typical seasons to travel to and enjoy. Visitors can enter Satpura National Park from mid-October through the end of June, with the latter few months of the season offering the best possibilities to see wildlife.

Season of summer (March, April, May, June)

For the most part, especially if they are going on a walking safari, the hotter months are known for their high temperatures. On the other hand, April is a fantastic compromise. The park still draws lots of people who love animals despite the heat.

Season of winter (November, December, January, February)

Satpura National Park is best visited in the winter due to the pleasant noontime temperatures, but it may still get very chilly early in the morning and at night, demanding layers of clothing, including one with an overcoat.

Time of the Satpura Tiger Safari

Seasonal fluctuations affect Satpura National Park's operating hours. It's vital to keep in mind, too, that the park isn't open to visitors during the monsoon because that's when wild animals procreate.

The morning and evening safari schedules in Satpura National Park are determined by the park's higher officials and are unique for each state.

Sunset and sunrise are equally significant in the safari schedule but have different time frames in the summer and winter. The park opens 30 minutes before sunrise and closes 30 minutes before dusk as a general rule. In addition, the administration adjusts the schedule to accommodate VIP trips.

Zones in Satpura Safari booking

Core, Buffer, and Reserved are the three different sorts of zones in Satpura Tiger Reserve.

The central region of the jungle is a protected area. It acts as a clearinghouse for data on the state of the ecosystems represented by biosphere reserves in their natural state. The forest department is committed to protecting wildlife and the environment. In the buffer zone, animals and a small portion of human life coexist peacefully. Lastly, a protected forest acts as a fictitious forest boundary. On the other hand, animals do not understand what a "zone" is. Because the forest is their habitat, they are free to roam the entire area.
