

How To Start A Modern Lightweight Jewellery Collection

When we think of modern jewellery, for a lot of people, their mind goes straight to junk or gold plated jewellery. What happens when we choose junk and plated jewellery is we quickly realize that they get tarnished in no time and there is no freedom to wear them while swimming, bathing, or to bed. If you've also been burnt by plated jewellery or are someone who is quite sensitive to the materials used in such jewellery then 14k or 18k modern lightweight jewellery is for you. If you are new to this world of jewellery, we're here to help you choose the right pieces to start your very own jewel collection.

Let's start with one of the very first absolute must-have jewellery pieces - rings. Since they are amongst the first pieces to be seen, you have got to make the right choice while selecting your first few pieces. To start off with look out for a textured ring. This can be anything from a twisted or beaded design ring or even a slim hammered ring. Why this design you ask? Textures of all kinds help even the most dainties of rings and bands stand out. Textured rings when paired together in a stack and the way you choose to stack them up can really help bring out your taste in jewellery. If you are wondering about the kind of textured ring to first pick up, then go with a beaded ring. Choose a ring design that features medium sized beads and not too loud ones as that will prove to be difficult to pair with other dainty pieces. Another great first time gold ring is a skinny hammered ring - simply because the sparkle it offers is unbeatable. Another lightweight piece to look out for is a flat band. Just make sure to stay from the bulky options which are more of a common mens rings design. Instead, go with maybe a 3mm band that can be used to create a sort of break between two rings with textures on them. Lightweight bands are also great to wear on their own, and look especially pretty and bold when rocked on the index finger solo. Now if you want to showcase a bit of your sense of style, you can pick out a dainty gold ring with some sort of design on it. It can something like a cute little heart or star ring or even a small floral ring. If you like showing off your sweet initials, you can even go with a letter design ring on your right ring finger. Make sure to space out your stacks with solo rings on some fingers.

In order to find such delicate and solid gold jewellery be it engagement rings or everyday wear gold chains, you have got to look out for a jewellery brand or store that specializes in 14k or 18k pure gold jewellery. These establishments are more likely to carry all the contemporary jewellery designs that you need. And lastly, ensure that these pieces come with hallmark and authenticity certificates or bills.
