She has even gone as far as having her labia tattooed – and now believes she has the 'world's most tattooed' private area.

She has a skull inking down there but hasn't given many more details on her intimate body art until now.

The mum-of-one revealed the moment she got another crotch design done in a video for her 79,000 Instagram followers.

The tattoo artist was seen in between Becky's legs.

As they applied the design to her crotch, she took deep breaths to get through the pain of it. Captioning the clip, which has gained more than 646 likes since it was posted on August 18, Becky wrote: "It's a tough job but someone's got to do it!

"You may have seen in the press this last week about my 'world famous tattooed v*gina'. Round of applause to @pengerzztattoos for putting up with the countless sessions this has taken."

The news comes after the Cheshire-based OnlyFans star admitted she can struggle to get jiggy with her partner Ben because she is too swollen down there – even one month after the inking.

The pair have found apparently found it difficult as they usually have a very active sex life – but now it's all foreplay on him.

Becky explained: "We won't be able to be intimate until it's finished healing which will be difficult for both of us as we have a very active sex life. Foreplay for him only currently!"

Her boyfriend Ben Mason, 23, is the complete opposite to her as he is completely ink free.

In an interview with OK, Becky said: "Ben and I are like chalk and cheese, in both our looks and our personalities. I'm a real extrovert whereas he's far more reserved.

"We get odd looks all the time, but somehow our relationship just works.

"When I met Ben at a local pub at the start of last year, I was content and confident with my striking appearance – and he sensed that and found it attractive.

"Ben doesn't have any tattoos at all so we're opposites in that respect, but we connected over our love of family and finding the fun in every situation."
