This high-quality granite is resistant to scratches and stains, allowing it to maintain its smooth, luxurious appearance for many years to come. It is also easier to clean than wooden or plastic worktops.

Blue Pearl GT Granite Made Of?

Blue Pearl GT Granite is primarily composed of natural quartz and/or feldspar, as is most natural granite. It may contain other materials, but in most cases, the main minerals are those.

The minerals that make up a Blue Pearl GT Granite slab lend it some appealing properties. Some of these characteristics translate into useful properties for everyday use and care.

Natural granite has a significant advantage over other hard countertop surface materials in terms of hardness. Blue Pearl GT Granite is scratch resistant due to its hardness. Blue pearl is also resistant to heat. Granite, unlike some engineered stone, can withstand heat and will not burn or discolour.

Blue Pearl GT natural granite is also one-of-a-kind. It is not only distinct from other stones, but also from other Blue Pearl slabs. Because each stone differs from the next, it is recommended that you select your own slab.

How to Clean Blue Pearl GT Granite:

Another aspect of caring for your granite surface is using a cleaner designed specifically for natural stone. Blue Pearl countertops and other surfaces are made of natural stone, and sealing them is only one part of the process. Not all household cleaners are suitable for use on natural stone. In reality, some cleaners degrade natural stone sealers. So, to keep the seal that you're constantly replenishing, use a natural stone cleaner that won't degrade sealers.

The daily cleaner is one type of natural stone cleaner that is designed to remove the spots, smudges, and food residue that inevitably end up on your Blue Pearl kitchen countertop. A stain remover is another type of cleaner that isn't used as frequently. This type of cleaning agent may be required if your sealer breaks down and an oil-based liquid or a water-based liquid gets into the pores of the granite. These products are designed to remove the stain from the stone. However, keeping the sealer on the stone replenished reduces the need for these types of stone cleaners.

Maintaining Blue Pearl GT Granite:

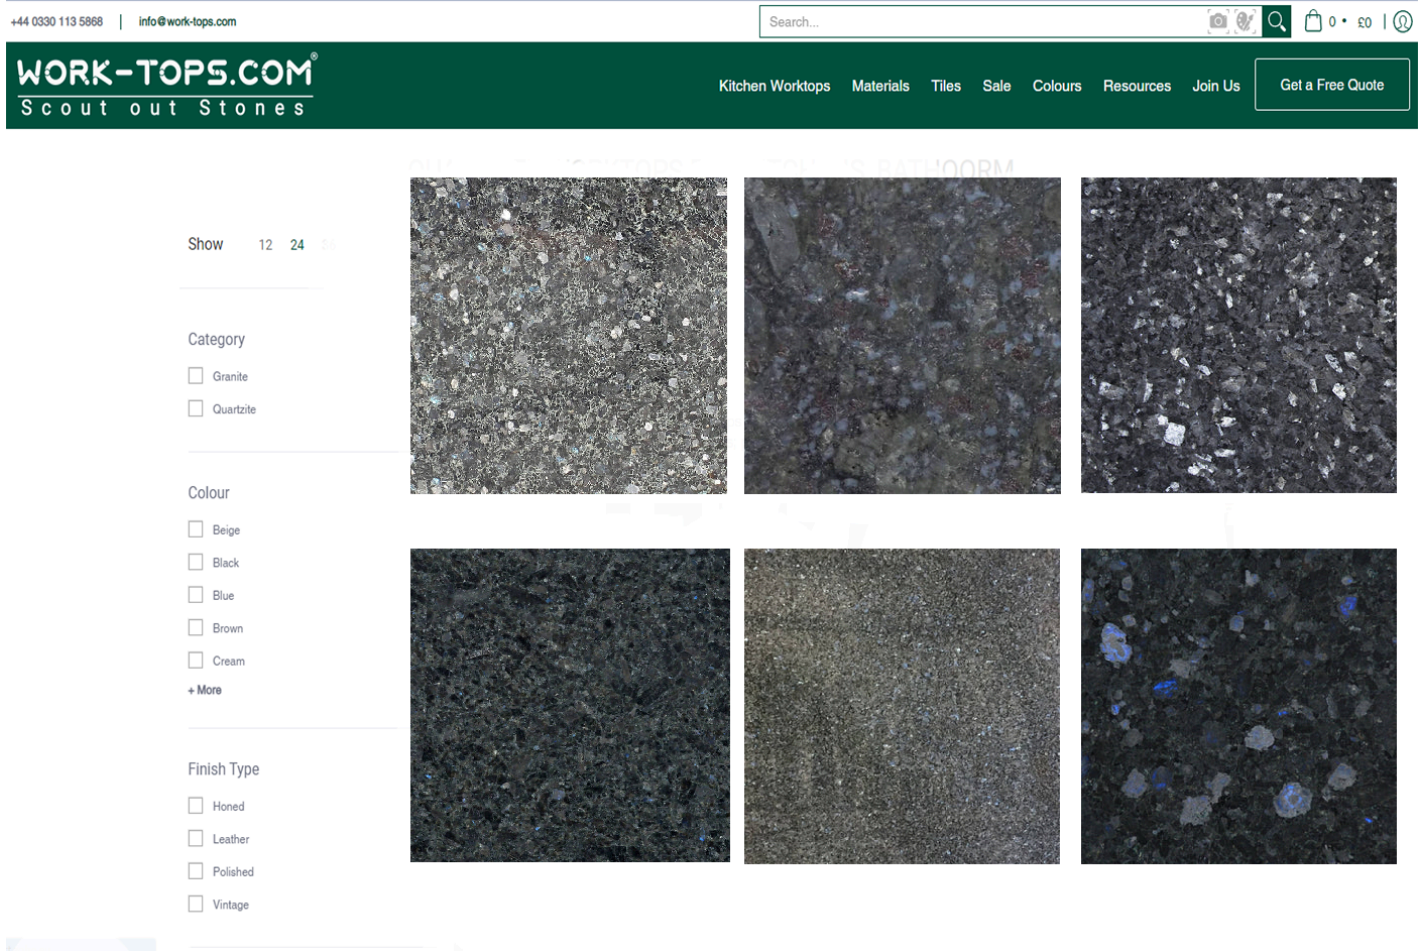

It all comes down to developing a regular cleaning and sealing routine for your natural Blue Pearl Granite surface. Once you get into the swing of things, it becomes second nature.

- To keep the sealer from breaking down, use a pH-neutral cleaner to remove any debris from the surface.
- When your granite surface becomes thirsty, reseal it.
- Using a fortified stone polish on a regular basis gradually keeps the sealer on the natural stone's surface.

- Blue Pearl Granite is a one-of-a-kind natural stone that will make your design truly unique. Your kitchen or other areas will not only be visually appealing but also functional.
