As part of the series, there are two tournaments - £21,200 ($27,000) Triton Super High Roller GGMion$ Live and £3,300 WSOP Super Circuit Series London Main Event - which promise exciting experiences for competitive players as well as seeing poker on the world stage. Commenting on the upcoming Road to London poker series, Angela Martin, GGPoker's head of UK and Ireland marketing, said, "We're really excited to bring the excitement of the live poker event back to London. Road to London offers our players a unique opportunity to compete in world-class tournaments and with poker elites. We are confident that GGPoker players will enjoy the opportunity to enter this incredible live broadcast event at a low cost and realize their poker dreams."

When it comes to the £21,200 Triton Super High Roller GGMillion$ Live, it will host the world's most respected poker players, starting on July 27, which will be a truly exciting event.

Meanwhile, the £3,300 WSOP Super Circuit Series London Main Event, scheduled to begin on August 8, offers a huge guaranteed prize pool of £3,000,000. In addition, at least 200 players will participate in the aforementioned WSOP Super Circuit London Main Event through London.

However, players declared winners of these satellite tournaments are free to participate in either the OnLive Day 1 tournament in GGPoker or the three Live Day 1 tournaments in London.
