

Author Anna Elizabeth Judd

Anna provides it all as if you were in the saddle along for the journey. Her rare books bring readers joy from nearly every genre they can appreciate. She exuberantly brings the image and sentiments of the west to full life throughout the storyline. Yet, at the core of Judd's work is an Appaloosa stallion who appears in all her westerns. Haystack fills children's minds with wonder as he interacts with Marshal Spur and the Outrider Gang, to the mild, minored young steed who brings Adam to new levels of learning in his life. Then he is brilliantly portrayed as a beautiful Appaloosa stallion in 'The Broncobusters' as Cash.

Anna Elizabeth Judd Best- Selling Author includes a vast trove of Western Novels depicting the "Cowboy Way," Horse Whisperers, Gunslingers, and the Wild West, but few scratch the surface relative to the vibrant depictions through which Anna takes the storyline in 'The Hourglass of el Diablo'.

In her newest edition, 'The Handbook of Horsemanship', Ann shows her extensive knowledge of horse training. As she originally wrote the book for her clients, so after the training with her was complete, they would have a guide to take home. It ensured their continued success in the world of horsemanship.

Anna has many other books planned in the future, so stay tuned for the next adventure of Daniel in 'A Distant Calling' now on sale. Or 'The Hourglass' with Marshal Spur coming winter 2022. But..... don't think she has left us longing.... Dive into her new music album for all the young cowboys and girls in the world. Spur Up! Marshal Spur and the Outlaw.

Anna is one of the greatest novelists and a freelance ghostwriter is known for equestrian professionalism in every genre. Her young adult fiction novels and all books bring joy to the readers.

Lizzy is the founder of Writers Publishing House/Ghost Writer Media, who writes under her pen name Anna Elizabeth Judd, a solid publishing firm with more than a decade of assisting clients with their publishing needs. She has a BA in fine arts, with a minor in Equine Science. On the side, she studied at Scottsdale Art Institute under Robert 'Shoofly' Shufelt.

Lizzy writes books, which considering this website, makes perfect sense. She is best known for ghostwriting various best sellers in all genres. Along with her novels based on the initial part of her working career, horse training. As she understands the importance of family values, Lizzy chose a pen name borrowed from her family tree, Anna Elizabeth Judd.

When not absorbed in writing for clients, Lizzy can be found hiking, biking, or any outside activity. Although she does not train horses any longer, their spirits will always be a part of her soul. As a passionate entrepreneur Lizzy understands the importance of exemplary customer service, it is the basis for any successful business. In this case, Writers Publishing House was founded on the idea that the focus must be on the client's success. She believes, "Everyone should profit from their passion."
