

Rosewill rsv-l4000b Server Case

According to Online Graphiccard shop Rosewill RSV-4000B rackmount server case is designed for professional use in data centers. This professional-looking case is made from high-quality steel with a black finish.

Rosewill RSV-4000B's key feature is its large internal storage space. It can hold up to 12 hot-swappable, 3.5-inch hard drives. It is an ideal choice for data centers as it allows easy expansion and upgrading of storage capacity. This case supports ATX, Micro-ATX and Extended ATX motherboards. This allows for flexibility in terms of hardware compatibility.

Rosewill RSV-4000B has many useful features to simplify the process of building servers. It features an easy-to-use design that allows you to install components quickly. Additionally, it has a removable filter that keeps the internal components cool and working smoothly.

There are also a variety of connectivity options on the front panel, including two USB 3.0 ports and one USB 2.0 port. This allows you to easily connect peripherals like keyboards, mice, or headphones and also gives you easy access to the internal components of your server.

Rosewill RSV-4000B has an integrated cooling system. It includes three 80mm fans that provide sufficient airflow to cool internal components and keep them running smoothly. This is particularly important for data centers where servers are constantly running.

The Rosewill RSV-4000B 4U rackmount server box is ideal for professional use in data centers or other professional settings. This case is ideal for data centers as it has a large interior space that can hold up to 12 hot-swappable, 3.5-inch hard drives. This case supports ATX, Micro-ATX and Extended ATX motherboards. This allows for flexibility in hardware compatibility. The case also features a tool-free design, removable filter, front-panel connectivity options and a built-in cooling system to make the process of building servers as efficient and easy as possible.