On the 2nd of January, 2021, one of boxing’s hottest prospects faces off against a veteran of the sport in Luke Campbell for the interim WBC Lightweight World Title.

It’s a classic encounter – a rising star meets an established name, with plenty on the line for both parties. Ryan Garcia will be looking for a statement win in his first real test, while Campbell will be trying to maintain his legitimacy at world level.

The bout was originally scheduled for December, but was postponed after Campbell had contracted COVID-19.

Both boxers are very highly skilled operators with traits that would make them a tough proposition for anyone at lightweight. Garcia is lightning fast and possesses deceptive one-punch power, whilst Campbell is a crafty southpaw with warrior-like resiliency and heart.
