Builders and developers in Kolhapur have a lot of challenges when it comes to building and developing homes. The city is located in the Western Ghats, which means that the land is hilly, making it difficult to build on.

The builders and developers of Kolhapur are always looking for new ways to overcome these challenges. They are experimenting with different types of materials such as mud bricks, bamboo, or steel. They are also trying to find a way around the lack of land by building up instead of out.
