

I WANT TO DIE

Life is not a bed of roses only, it has thrones too. You are fairer sex. You are emotionally not hard baked. You might be physically strong, your heart is still a soft being. It is softer than a feather, all your nice emotions and feelings generate right from the core of it. Your parents take care of you, you are raised like a princess, God has blessed you with a life that has brought you parents, friends and this beautiful world to explore. Yet all of a sudden, something happens and you feel like 'I want to die.'
