

Clean room basics explained.

A clean room is indeed an environment with a tightly regulated degree of contamination which is used for the manufacture of precision equipment or perhaps the conduction of the scientific research. To regulate the quantity of particles each cubic metre at a particular particle size throughout the room, clean rooms utilize specially developed equipment. In some situations, air temperature as well as humidity controls are also required.

Portable Clean Room Rental