

Lode Palle

Lode Palle is a junior software engineer transitioning to the cybersecurity field. I discovered my passion for networking and security during my formative years completing my graduate diploma in software engineering. My goal is to become a competent penetration tester in the future. As a former healthcare professional, I am efficient in working within a team and in high pressure work situations. As a former manager, I am capable of managing a team myself.

