

The Significance of Termite Control During the Current Pandemic

Although most businesses have shut down to adhere to the social distancing directive by the government, pest control services are allowed to carry on with their operations. This is because pest control has been identified as one of the essential services, along with hospitals, grocery stores, pharmacies and gas stations.