The expansive 19th century tapestry by William Morris includes the exact scene depicted in our Pheasant and Doe Tapestry Cushion Cover. The wild scene shows a colorfully feathered bird perched in the tall grass while a doe looks on from behind the vines. Morris founded the British arts and crafts movement at the end of the 1800s. The tapestry cover is resplendent in the colors of nature. This beautiful woven piece will brighten any piece of furniture with its lovely scene rendered in incredible hues. It works well with other pillows in solid velvets or patterns to compliment the cover's design. Cushion cover backed with lining and zipper. Infill not included. Woven in France.
