

Asignio: Empowering Financial Institutions with Secure Authentication Solutions

In today's world, where everything from your groceries to your dinner reservations can be done online, it is only apparent that financial services ride this wave of digital transformation.

Moreover, where there is data, there is the threat of cyber-attacks, and FIs are the most lucrative targets for ransomware, phishing, and other data security threats. This is where companies like Asignio play a significant role in protecting FIs against such vulnerabilities.

In the following interview with Insights Success a business solutions magazine, Kyle Rutherford, the CEO, shares his insights on the company's journey in the FinTech industry and his vision for future innovations under Asignio's label.

Following are the interview highlights.

How do you envision scaling your company's operations and offerings in 2021?

We're in trials now with a couple of financial institutions. Once we roll those services out, we will need to scale rapidly.

Source URL