1. Wondering when it's best to wear a barong to a formal event instead of a suit?

When it comes to weddings, choosing the right barong depends on the invitation. For business attire, you have the option of a suit and tie or a linen barong. For more formal events, a darker suit or a piña jusi barong paired with black trousers and lace-up shoes is appropriate. And for black-tie affairs, consider a piña jusi barong with tuxedo pants and patent slippers. Many of our customers opt for a white barong, as it complements most wedding motifs perfectly.

2. Wondering about the right barong for different times of the day?

Your choice of barong varies with the occasion and time. For morning weddings or daytime events, a formal linen barong paired with cufflinks and either dark grey or black trousers is fitting. However, black barongs are typically reserved for formal affairs like weddings or state functions, particularly during the day.

7. Is it possible to wear a barong multiple times? How should it be laundered?

Barongs are crafted from delicate fabrics that require special care. While they can be worn multiple times, it's essential to maintain their crispness by steaming them after each wear.
