Best Play- The Shoe-Horn Sonata.

The Shoe-Horn Sonata is a multi-award winning best play of John Misto which was repeatedly performed at Australian theaters. John wanted that world should know about the heroism of Australian nurses during the World War 2. This was inspired from the real life experiences of the nurses imprisoned by the Japanese Army after the fall of Singapore in 1942.

The Shoe-Horn Sonata is the story of nurses who lived in very disgraceful conditions. However, some were brought back to Australia and some died of illness and malnutrition or were drowned or been shot dead. John wanted Australians to remember them even after fifty years of the end of World War by building a memorial for them. After winning the highest prize money of $20,000 with this play in 1995 he donated all the money to Australian Nurses' National Memorial Fund to build a memorial for the nurses. This play was reproduced 14 times and broadly studied in schools in NSW. He visited many times in Australian schools to talk about his play.
