

Jaeger-LeCoultre watches: 3 iconic watches to JLC watch straps

When we talk about the Jaeger Lecoultre watch and strap, The name of Jaeger-LeCoultre, like many famous Swiss watches, is composed of the surnames of its two founders, Antoine Lecoultre and Jacques David-Le Coultre.

The History of Jaeger Lecoultre watch

Antoine Lecoultre (Antoine Lacourt) set up his own watch manufacturing factory in the Jura Mountains in Switzerland in 1833, which was the predecessor of the Jaeger-LeCoultre watch factory.

In 1900, his grandson Jacques David-Le Coultre took over the family business. He worked hand in hand with the French watchmaker and precision marine timepiece manufacturer Edmond Jaeger. mutual friendship, and cultural compatibility, the Jaeger-LeCoultre watch brand was born.

The movement of each Jaeger-LeCoultre watch is made in-house by the watch factory, so that it can perfectly fit the shape of the case and provide a variety of exclusive functions.

Jaeger-LeCoultre currently produces more than 40 movements at the same time, including the smallest movements in the world, as well as the most advanced and complex movements.

The all-round craftsmanship is an anomaly in today's watch industry.

Jaeger-LeCoultre has expanded from a workshop founded in 1833 to today's leading professional watchmaking factory, covering dozens of professional divisions of labor. The persistent and enthusiastic JLC watch company employees contribute to advanced watchmaking craftsmanship every day.

For more than 150 years, these hard-working technical pioneers have won Jaeger-LeCoultre such a rare reputation as an "excellent watch brand".

Since its establishment, Jaeger-LeCoultre has become an important watch brand in the history of watchmaking. It has countless innovative and renowned products in the watch industry, including Jaeger Lecoultre Reverso, Duoplan, Master Control, Memovox Polaris, Gyrotourbillon and Atmos.

Jaeger-LeCoultre REVERSO

The Jaeger LeCoultre Reverso watch was born in the 1930s. In 1931, a British officer on the polo field in India had his watch mirror shattered due to a fierce collision during the game. The officer immediately approached Jacques David-Le Coultre and asked him to help design a sturdy watch as soon as possible that could withstand severe impacts during polo matches. In order to meet this challenge, the Reverso series of watches came into being.

The dial of the JLC reverso watch can be flipped to face the wearer's wrist, which can resist violent collisions without losing elegance and sophistication. Jaeger watches are also widely popular outside of sports and include men's and women's series.
