In Hawaiian culture, everything is interconnected, and Lomilomi Nui reflects this worldview. It is based on the understanding that physical discomfort and illness are manifestations of imbalances in the mind and spirit. By working on the body, Lomi Lomi Nui aims to harmonise the entire being, ultimately promoting physical and emotional well-being.

The practice is guided by Hawaiian principles, such as "Aloha" (love and compassion), "Pono" (righteousness and balance), and "Mana" (spiritual power). These principles form the foundation of Lomi Lomi Nui and infuse it with deep spirituality and reverence for nature.
