

Tips and Tricks for Constructing Armour Stone Retaining Walls

An armour stone retaining wall is a type of structure designed to hold back soil and prevent erosion in a landscape. These walls are constructed using large, sturdy stones known as armour stones, which are typically chosen for their durability and size. The stones are strategically placed and arranged to create a barrier that can withstand the pressure exerted by soil and water.

