The term alienation has been used over the ages with varied and sometimes contradictory meanings. In The Old Man and the Sea “The old man is a character isolated from people – and in fact from the world of humans entirely – in his time on the sea. This isolation defines who he is, and emphasizes the unique nature of his character. Page 2: Day Two, (p 18 – 44), From Santiago waking Manolin at the start of the eighty-fifth day since Santiago has caught a fish to Santiago’s promise to kill the marlin before the day ends, Summary, The old man hit him on the head for kindness and kicked him,, his body still shuddering, under the shade of the stern., The next morning, before sunrise, the old man goes . The title of the novella, The Old Man and the Sea, suggests the critical thematic role that age plays in the book's two principal characters, Santiago and Manolin, represent the old and the young, and a beautiful harmony develops between one lacks, the other provides. Manolin, for example, has energy and enthusiasm. In The Old Man and the Sea, Ernest Hemingway describes an old fisherman and the unfortunate trials he faces as his “luck” runs out. Through the novel, the fisherman, Santiago, replicates Hemingway’s ideal man, a noble hero. Hemingway had a Code of Behavior that he himself followed. The Old Man and the Sea is about an aging fisherman named Santiago who has gone 84 days without catching a fish. He is friends with a young boy named Manolin who helps care for him. One day, Santiago catches an unusually large marlin but must fight to reel it in over three days.
