

How to Make Photo Mug

Photo mugs are an easy way to update old mugs or make a creative keepsake to give to a friend or family member. On your mug, you can insert whatever picture you like, whether it's a picture of your family, a funny quote, or just a picture you enjoy. You have complete creative freedom. This do-it-yourself project will give any mug a new look. The best thing about it is that it is simple to execute and does not call for any time. But if crafts aren't your thing, you can get one made just as easily through a service.

Grab a mug:

The first thing you need to do to make a picture mug is find one you want to change. You can use whatever mug you want. But consider the mug's colour, feel, and form. Most of the time, mugs that are smooth and have a normal shape will work best. Better still are mugs with a solid colour that matches the colours in your picture.

Look for a picture to use:

Once you've chosen a mug you'd like to personalise, you can select one of your favourite pictures to put on it. You can print out and put on your mug any picture you want. Have fun choosing a photo that will work well.

Use transfer paper to print the picture:

Now that you're ready to print a picture, you should put transfer paper in your printer. Transfer paper is a special writing paper that lets you stick the image on your mug for good. Make sure that transfer paper, not normal paper, is in your printer before you print.

Clear acrylic paint should be sprayed on the paper:

Some paper for transfer printing already has a seal on the outside. But if your transfer paper isn't, you must cover the printed picture with a clear acrylic coat. This will help the image last longer and make your mug safe for washing.

Cut out the picture and let it soak in water:

After your coating has dried, you can cut out the picture and trim away the rest of the paper sheet. Once the picture is the right size and shape, soak it in water for a few minutes. This will get the picture ready to be put on the mug.

Put the picture on and let it dry:

After your picture has soaked up water, put it in the mug. Take the picture out of the water, peel off the paper's backing, and stick it on the mug. You can move the image around before it dries, so don't worry about getting it right the first time.

Clean the cup:

Once the picture is dry, wash the mug before using it. This will get rid of any leftovers from applying the paint. Once your mug is clean, you can use it and enjoy how it looks now that it has been painted.
