Here are some common types of aircon installation:

1. Split aircon installation: A split aircon installation is a type of air conditioning installation that consists of two separate units, one inside the building and one outside. The indoor unit is typically mounted on the wall and blows cool air into the room, while the outdoor unit contains the compressor and condenser. Split aircon systems are commonly used to cool individual rooms or small spaces, but they can also be used to cool larger areas by installing multiple indoor units.
2. Commercial aircon installation: Commercial aircon installation is a type of air conditioning installation that is designed for commercial spaces, such as offices, retail stores, and other commercial buildings. These systems are typically more powerful than residential air conditioning systems and are designed to cool large spaces. Commercial aircon systems can be split systems, ducted systems, or other types of systems depending on the specific needs of the building. Commercial aircon installations often require a professional HVAC contractor to design and install the system to ensure it meets the specific requirements of the building and its occupants.
